Form of introduction

"My name is X. I'm from Essex/London University. We're preparing a report (writing a book) about standards of living in Britain today and how families manage. We think it's important for the Government and everyone else to know what the facts really are. We're hoping to talk to about 3,000 families throughout the country and I'd be very grateful if you could help us by answering some questions. All our information is, of course, strictly confidential."

WRITE IN ANSWER

I haven't a clue - a biggest fault is their own fault - they can always work there has always been work at least there for 20 years anyway.

I reckon it's because they don't want to work or they can't manage their money. They spend it - anything they should be better off. They have too many children some of them. They shouldn't have so many and they would be better off.
