Dear Hilary

Just to show that "Large Families in London" is making progress I am enclosing a copy of the cover. I hope you feel it looks all right.

I also enclose a copy of the printers' timetable. The time taken to set the galleys is long because I assume that the printers were shut for some period for holidays. We can, however, expect to reduce the time taken if you can deal with the proofs in less than the four weeks which they have allowed.

I enclose a note which I have written to Mr. Nowell about your promotion. I certainly would have been willing to recommend it earlier. The only reason for waiting until your book had reached an advanced stage was to ensure that the recommendation would be most likely to be successful.

*Yours
Thomas*

PS I am now pressing the printers so that we can be able to publish your paper before 4 weeks

Dear Hilary

I have now received readers' reports on your Occasional Paper and I am writing formally to say that we shall be delighted to publish it.

I understand that Peter has a number of comments which you will be wanting to take into account. I have also some other comments from readers. First, it is suggested that you might look at chapter five again, as this chapter tends to descend to the anecdotal in places. Secondly, it is suggested that some of the technicalities of birth control in chapter eight might be cut out.

I do hope that the final manuscript will be ready very soon. We have virtually missed the bus for July publication and this means that it must wait until September.

You might wish to prepare at the same time as you are completing the text a press statement of some five hundred words which will be sent out when it is published. The purpose of the press statement is to produce the sort of brief article which a provincial paper could carry unamended and which could enthuse other papers to study the book, so do not hesitate to make it popular.

I shall also be needing a three or four-line statement for the Bell's book-list. You might also like to think about review copies. I enclose a rather out of date Ronsced review list on which you might care to mark publications to receive review copies, but please add any others which you think might carry a review.

I shall be asking you in due course to sign a formal, legal statement assigning the copyright to the Social Administration Research Trust. This would not, of course, exclude reasonable serialisation or provision in article form. Also needed is a formal statement that the book does not contain anything libellous. We shall anyway be arranging for the draft to go to libel readers at the proof state. Please remember that speed of publication is secured by putting the papers straight into page proof. This means that only minor corrections can be made after the final manuscript is received.

*Yours
Brian*

Miss Hilary Lang,

I have now received several requests on your Occasional Paper and I am writing formally to say that it will be delighted to publish it.

I understand that Peter has a number of comments which you will be wanting to take into account. I have also seen other comments from readers. First, it is suggested that you might look at the matter of a 'skin' as this appears to be essential to the model. Secondly, it is suggested that some of the assumptions of the model might be too strict.

I do hope that the final manuscript will be ready very soon. It has been ally stated the due for July publication and this means that it must be ready by September.

You might wish to consider the case time as you are completing the text a precise statement of how the model will be used when it is published. The purpose of the model is to produce the sort of brief article which a professional paper could carry and which could enhance other papers to study the book, so do not hesitate to make it popular.

I shall also be needing a brief or 'one-line' statement for the book's list. You might also like to think about review copies. I enclose a rather out of date form for review which you might care to mark publications to receive review copies, but please do not think you must think only a review.

- shall be asking you to give a formal, legal statement concerning the copyright to the Social Administration Research Trust. This would not, of course, involve any transfer of publication or provision in article form.
I have needed a formal statement that the book does not contain anything libellous.
It shall anyway be necessary for the book to go to the publishers at the proof stage. Please remember that the book is secured by putting the papers straight into some sort of 'lock'. This means that only minor corrections can be made after the final manuscript is received.

Dear Mr Raison,

Thank you for your letter of 19th August, which was awaiting me on my return from holiday this week. I should like to write the article you suggest, though combining all but the last section which contains my findings indicating the reasons for the families becoming large families. This, I feel, should be dealt with separately from a discussion of the families' level of living, though I have not yet had a chance to discuss this with Professor Abel-Smith who may feel differently.

I shall let you have a draft of the article shortly and perhaps we could discuss the contents more fully then.

Yours sincerely,

Dear Miss Jones,

Professor Abel-Smith, who is ill at the moment, has asked me to send you the drafts of two articles containing the preliminary results of our survey of large families in London. These drafts still require some amendments and we should be very pleased to have your comments before we make the final corrections.

As we hope to submit these articles to New Society early next week, if possible, we should like to have your comments by the end of this week.

Yours sincerely,

Research Assistant
